Message from Rabbi Kenter

I have been especially reflective over the last year on the idea that we say that person's memory should be for a blessing rather than saying that their life was blessing (which of course it was). What I have determined is that a life of blessing is not sufficient and is also inherently limited. A memory serving as a blessing endures well after a person has passed away. It assures that their life still matters and betters the world in incredibly meaningful ways.

The Yizkor service derives its name from the portion of the service where we not only remember our family and friends who have died, but where we also commit to dedicate ourselves to better the world in their memory. In that way, they are quite literally of blessed memory. Their memory lives on in us, our children, and our friends when we remember them and honour them through our lives.

This year is likely to include many more personal prayer experiences than we are used to. While we may gather together primarily virtually, being at home gives us the space for more personal reflection and introspection. It gives us the time, if we so choose to use it, to remember our loved ones more fully. To surround ourselves with their pictures and share their stories with our loved ones. To literally pause the service and commit to the ways that we wish to make their memories a blessing this year.

The Yizkor service is a time to remember our loved ones, but perhaps even more so, an opportunity to commit ourselves to bettering the world in the ways that they would have wanted us to. And in doing that work of introspection, we can assure that their lives endure as long as we are around to do so, continuing to assure that their legacies carry on as long as we are able to do so.

May everyone whose lives we recall this day continue as a blessing not only for us, but for the entire world.

Adapted from Hope Edelman

Nature often offers metaphors more elegant than any we can manufacture. In the redwood ecosystem, all seeds are contained in pods called burls, tough brown clumps that grow where the mother tree's trunk and root system meet. When the mother tree is logged, blown over, or destroyed by fire the trauma stimulates the burls' growth hormones. The seeds release, and trees sprout around her, creating a circle of children. The child trees grow by absorbing the sunlight their mother cedes to them when she dies. And they get the moisture and nutrients they need from their mother's root system, which remains intact even after her leaves die. Although the children exist independently of their mother above ground, they continue to draw sustenance from her underneath. Mothers live on in everything we do. Their presence influences who we were, and their absence influences who we are and who we will yet be. Our lives are shaped as much by those who leave us and they are by those who stay, Loss is our legacy. Insight is our gift. Memory is our guide.

My father was a god and did not know it

He gave me The Ten Commandments neither in thunder nor in fury;
neither in fire nor in cloud
But rather in gentleness and love. And he added caresses and kind words and he added "I beg You," and "please."
And he sang "keep" and "remember" the Shabbat
In a single melody and he pleaded and cried quietly between one utterance and the next,
"Do not take the name of God in vain," do not take it, not in vain,
I beg you, "do not bear false witness against your neighbor."
And he hugged me tightly and whispered in my ear
"Do not steal. Do not commit adultery. Do not murder."
And he put the palms of his open hands
On my head with the Yom Kippur blessing.
"Honor, love, in order that your days might be long On the earth." And my father's voice was white like the hair on his head.
Later on he turned his face to me one last time
Like on the day when he died in my arms and said
I want to add Two to the Ten Commandments:
The eleventh commandment - "Thou shall not change."
And the twelfth commandment - "Thou must surely change."
So said my father and then he turned from me and walked off Disappearing into his strange distances.

Yehuda Amichai

A prayer for those blessed with living parents

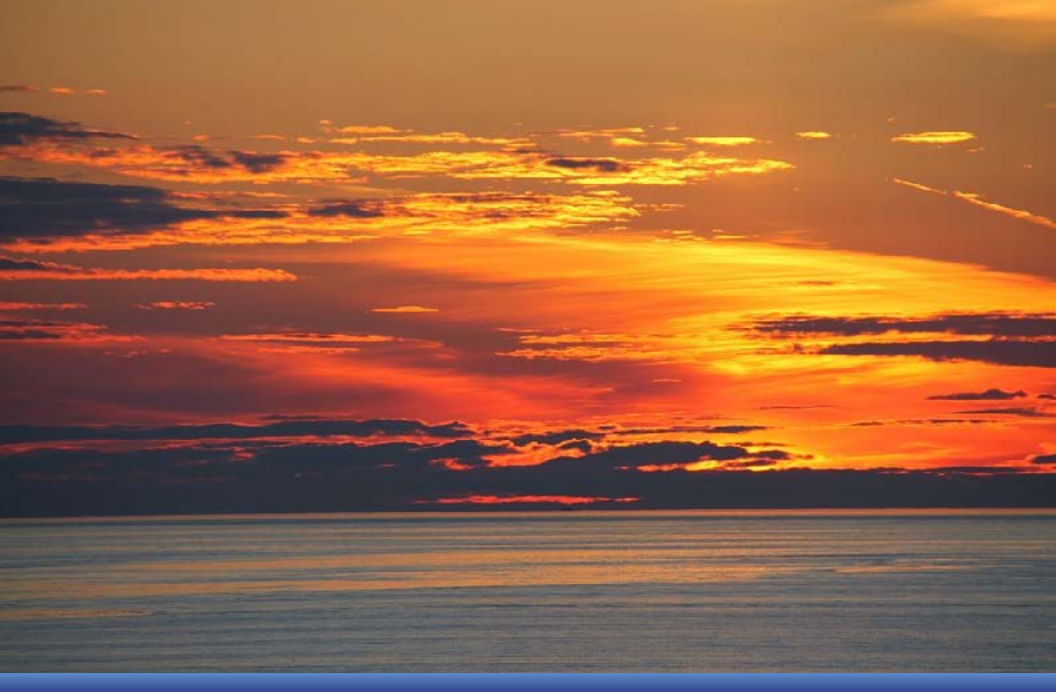

Almighty God, while those who have lost their parents and their dear ones call to mind those who have gone to their eternal rest, at this solemn moment I raise my eyes to you, the Giver of Life, and from a grateful heart, thank You for Your mercy in having preserved the life of my beloved (father, mother).

May it be Your will, O lord my God and God of my ancestors, to bless them with health and strength, so that they may be with me for many years to come. Bless them even as they have blessed me, and guard them even as they have guarded me.

In return for all their love, affection, and the sacrifices which they have made for me, may I bring them joy and lighten their cares. May it be my privilege to help them in every way that lies within my power; may I learn to understand and recognize the duty I owe to them, that I may never have cause to reproach myself when it is too late.

Shield my home from all sorrow. May peace and harmony and Your divine spirit ever reign within its walls. Keep me true to you and to all with whom I come in contact so that I may do Your will with a perfect heart.

-Beth Tzedek Congregation Yizkor Book

Last Day

If I only knew I would have brought you scents of happiness If I only knew That the pain will accompany it all If only I was less selfish And more attentive to you If only I knew It is our last day

I would have done it all differently for sure I would have given all of me without questioning I would have kept kissing you without stopping I would have wanted you here all the time I would have wrapped you in presents And not cry like a baby deserted in the fields

If only I knew It is the last day

If I only knew that I will open my eyes And not see you for a moment I could never bear it If I only knew That love will accompany it all If I only knew It is our last day

By Tal Segev

El Maleh for Israel's Soldiers & Martyrs

Exalted, compassionate God, grant perfect peace among the holy and the pure, in your sheltering presence, to the souls of the soldiers of the Israel Defense Forces who gave their lives for the sanctity of your name, the people and the land, and died a death of valor in the wars of Israel, and the souls of those killed in terror attacks. For we pray on their behalf, that paradise be their resting place. Therefore, Master of Mercy, shelter them in your presence forever. May their souls be bound up in the bonds of life. God is their inheritance, and may they rest in peace. And let us say: Amen.

Prayers when visiting the cemetery

When visiting for the first time in more than 30 days

“Praised be the Eternal, our God, the Ruler of the Universe who created you in judgment, who maintained and sustained you in judgment, and brought death upon you in judgment; who knows the deeds of everyone of you in judgment, and who will hereafter restore you to life in judgment. Praised be the Eternal who will restore life to the dead.”

O God, full of compassion, Who dwells on high, grant true rest upon the wings of the Shechinah (Divine Presence), in the exalted spheres of the holy and pure, who shine as the resplendence of the firmament, to the soul of _____ who has gone to his/her eternal rest; may his/her place of rest be in Gan Eden. Therefore, may the All-Merciful One shelter him/her with the cover of His wings forever, and bind his/her soul in the bond of life. The Lord is his/her heritage; may he rest in his resting-place in peace; and let us say: Amen.

PSALM 121

A song of ascents

1 I lift up my eyes to the mountains—where does my help come from?

2 My help comes from the LORD,
the Maker of heaven and earth.

3 He will not let your foot slip—
he who watches over you will not slumber;

4 indeed, he who watches over Israel will neither slumber nor sleep.

5 The LORD watches over you—
the LORD is your shade at your right hand;

6 the sun will not harm you by day,
nor the moon by night.

7 The LORD will keep you from all harm—
he will watch over your life;

8 the LORD will watch over your coming and going both now and forevermore.

In the rising of the sun and in its going down, we remember them; In the blowing of the wind and in the chill of the winter, we remember them; In the opening of buds and in the rebirth of spring, we remember them; In the rustling of leaves and in the beauty of autumn, we remember them; In the beginning of the year and when it ends, we remember them; When we are weary and in need of strength, we remember them; When we are lost and sick at heart, we remember them; When we have joys we yearn to share, we remember them. So long as we live, they too shall live, for they are now a part of us as we remember them.
